Communication is the act of conveying meanings from one person or group to another through the use of mutually understood signs and symbols. The English language, specifically, has urged the students to learn the art of communication who are career oriented. English language learning has along these lines acquired an unquestionable requirement for any Indian understudy today. The Language Lab of Bishop Heber College opened its door to train the students of Second year Undergraduate English Students of Bishop Heber College.

Students here acquired the needed skills like listening, speaking, reading and writing for communicating in English language. Students underwent hands on training with live activities. Forty Nine (49) students of the second year program improvised their language proficiency. They also learnt how English for Communication through technology is the need of the hour and how as students of literature should address the specific issues in communication and overcome the barriers in communication.

Dr. Suresh Frederick, Dean of Research and Development and Associate Professor and UG Head, Department of English motivated the students to practice regularly what has been taught in the Language Lab to gain mastery in communication and to equip themselves. Dr. K. Shanthi, Associate Dean of Arts and Coordinator of the Language Lab addressed the students regarding learning English for their life and professional enhancement. Dr. Annie Karunya Bagyam, the class incharge, and the faculty members of the Language Lab facilitated the students learning. At the end of the workshop, students underwent an online test and their scores were reflected in their respective certificates.
